

Eastern Ornamental Railing System: Sometimes, Simple is Best

In a world of endless options for a consumer, the choices made regarding materials can profoundly impact the success of projects and your bottom line. When it comes to selecting the perfect railing for a multitude of applications, Eastern Ornamental Railing System has emerged as a top-tier choice, making the decision-making process a simple one for contractors.

Eastern Fence, the manufacturer and a primary distributor of Eastern Ornamental Railing System, has been a leader in fence and railing products for over 50 years. This brings decades of experience, commitment to innovation, and diverse product knowledge to the forefront in the design of this railing system.

“Eastern Wholesale Fence, the manufacturer of the Eastern Ornamental Railing System has always prioritized customer satisfaction and providing excellent customer service throughout a project’s lifecycle,” says Chris DeLuso, Chief Revenue Officer of Eastern Wholesale Fence. “The Eastern Ornamental Railing System is a continuation of that thought process. It’s simple to install, visually attractive, lightweight, sturdy, and affordable. Not only that, it also uses the same sections for straight as well as stairs, is ICC-ES certified, IRC and IBC compliant, comes in two heights, three colors, has a great looking matte finish, and is available in 6’ and 8’ widths.”

Unlike many other types of fencing material, ornamental aluminum railings stand tall against the forces of nature. Ornamental aluminum railings maintain their structural integrity without the need for extensive maintenance. “Eastern Ornamental Railing System is highly durable and resistant to corrosion, rust, and weathering, making it an excellent choice for outdoor applications,” explains DeLuso “The low maintenance requirements of Eastern Ornamental Railing System are a game-changer. Our aluminum railings require minimal upkeep, and this allows businesses to save both time and labor costs in the long run.”
